Climate Change: Prioritizing Our Local and Global Leader
Intersection Let’s Live: Faith to Save the Earth
How do we remember justice and equity amid the ongoing political debate, how are we— and should we— responding?
How do we know when we are facing genuine change, and how can we work together to bring about the future? From climate change to new technologies, the world faces crucial intertwined and interrelated drivers of change that are both urgent and long-lasting.

Art and Democracy
Intersection Let’s Live: A World Above the Divide
Art, politics, and culture. What is the role of art—and the artist—in an active democracy? In this week, we hear from artists raising the social conscience, challenging the status quo and engaging communities large and small toward meaningful action.

Our women decide: as communities, demographies, families, nations and a human race.

The Ethics of Tech: Scientific, Corporate and Personal Responsibility
Intersection Let’s Live: Ethics in a Technologically Transforming World?
How do we navigate what has become one of the most contentious debates in education today and evaluate our obsession with—along with the limitations and repercussions of—genealogical/ancestry websites?

We look at America’s long narrative of folklore and our “melting pot” narrative.

The Science of Us
Intersection Let’s Live: The Spirituality of Us
In the wake of social isolation due to COVID-19, reflection and brooding together. This week-long webex explores how 21st-century science is disrupting our social and historical understandings of how “us” happens and who “we” are, from comorbidities to families, race and human nature.

We look at America’s long narrative of folklore and our “melting pot” narrative.

Reframing the Constitution
Intersection Let’s Live: Reframing our Journey: A Week with F. Richardson, OHM
Two hundred and thirty-four years after ratification, the US Constitution remains one of the most influential documents ever written.

We look at America’s long narrative of folklore and our “melting pot” narrative.

The Future We Want, the World We Need: Collective Action for Tomorrow’s Challenges
In Partnership with the U.N. Foundation
What will the world look like the coming decades, and how can we work together to better prepare for the future? From climate change to new technologies, the world faces crucial intertwined and interrelated drivers of change that are both urgent and long-lasting.

Where are the most important opportunities to realize a more equitable and sustainable world? What are our greatest collective challenges today?
