Jack: Man! What's that smell (gagging)

Billy: Oh sorry dude! My shoes really reek!

Jack: (Pushes Billy) Get away from me! You stink!

Narrator: Billy sadly puts his gym shoes in his locker.

Smelly shoes: Oh! I'm so glad to finally get some rest!

Narrator: Everything in the locker (notebooks, socks, clothes, Pens, etc.) all scream and bust out of the locker!

Smelly shoes: Aww! Come on! I guess it's just me! (sad)

Shoe Fairy: (Floating down) Gagging! Oh my! We have a very smelly Situation going on here!

Smelly shoes: I know! I know! I can't help it!

Shoe Fairy: Oh! But I can! (sweetly)

Narrator: She sprays her magic shoe spray in the shoes. All of the Locker items come back asking what that wonderful smell is.

Smelly shoes: Why it's me! I'm not smelly shoes anymore. I'm fabulous!

Narrator: The next day Jack and Billy return to the locker room.

Jack: Let me get out of here before you open that locker! I'm not smelling your feet again!

Billy: (opens his locker) There is a ray of light and angels singing! The smell in the air is breathtaking.

Smelly shoes: (emerges from the locker clutter) Ta da! I'm not smelly – I'm fabulous!

Jack: (amazed) Wow! Your shoes smell INCREDIBLE! Can I get a closer wiff?
(sticks nose in shoes and smells deeply)

Billy: Can you please be our basketball captain?

Narrator: Everyone in the locker room cheers!

Billy: Yes! Of course!

Narrator: Everyone carries Billy out on their shoulders

Shoe Fairy: Oh wonderful! My magic spray wins again!
