

The Dog Steals the Bone

by Konrad

Setting: In a town in the museum

Characters: A dog, Timmy, a guard, cashier at the toy store

Problem: The dog stole a bone from a fossil

Timmy: We're going to the fossil museum.

Dog: (He whispers to himself) I'm going to steal a bone.

Timmy: We're here!

Guard: (Is tired and doesn't see the dog) Welcome to the Fossil Museum.

Dog: (Relieved he got past the guard) There's the T-Rex.

(Pants and wags his tail excitedly) I'm going to steal the perfect bone.

Guard: (Yells loudly) Hey, you, dog! Give the bone back!

Timmy: (Whistles) Sit! (Grabs the bone and gives it back to the guard) Sorry my dog stole the bone, sir. He won't do it again.

Guard: (Relieved) Thank you. (Sternly) Can you please take the dog home?

Timmy: (Sad) (Puts the leash on the dog) Sorry again, sir. We will leave.

(Holds the leash, turns to the dog) You're a bad dog. You ruined my day. No bones or treat for a month.

Dog: (Sad) Sorry, Timmy.

Timmy: (Angry) Go to your dog house. Leave me alone, Dog.

Dog: (Sad) (Head down, tail between his legs, ears down) What can I do to make it up to Timmy? (He starts to think)

(Suddenly, the light goes off) (Excited and tail wagging) I know an idea! I will buy him a present!!

(Runs off to the store) I know what Timmy likes. He likes Legos – Wow, there is a Dino Lego set! That's perfect.

Cashier: That will be 9 bucks, please.

Dog: Thank you!

Cashier: Come again!

Dog: (Rushing home) Timmy, come here! I got you something.

Timmy: (Happy) Thank you, Dog! I love it!

Dog: (Happily) I knew he would like it.

THE END
